Korean artists in Chicago employ an eclectic range of materials such as edibles, fabric, acrylics, video, technology, and installation to convey both their legacy and heterogeneity. New Dialogue of Korean American Artists is about the collaborative effort between artists of varying generations and backgrounds exploring the idea of interweaving. This exhibition aims to create a space of dialogue and reconciliation for connecting the vastly diverse history and work of each artist.

~ Sun H. Choi, Visiting Curator

Choi is a contemporary artist and curator. She teaches at Gallery 37 and is the current president of the Chicago Korean-American Artist Association.
